Victims Left in Shaft Under Sea. Following Blast in 1928

Associated Press Cable

WHITEHAVEN, Eng., Feb. 27.—The bodies of 14 coal miners entombed in a shaft under the sea for three years Thursday caused a strike of 1,500 workers in the Hartlepool pits.

The miners had been idle since an explosion Jan. 29 killed 227 of their co-workers. They had refused to leave the heads of the colliers that they were represented by, and the bodies of the 14 were brought from the abandoned workings of the mine.

After an appeal to the miners, the pit was walled off and the 14 bodies were left there. Now the men say they will not return to work until the bodies are brought up for decent burial.

The entire board of directors were re-elected to office by the meeting.

"To that first meeting a financial statement was presented showing gross earnings of $1,000,000 and net total assets were $400,000. On December 21, last, they had reached a total of $20,000,000."

AN AGREEMENT IN SIGHT

The city and the university authorities have evidently reached a tentative agreement at last. In return for a bus service to the university and normal school, the city will be entitled to the portions of Saskatchewan Drive, 87th Street, and 112th Street which run through university property.

The arrangement is contingent on the bus service being started next year. That will involve a considerable outlay for motor busses. Despite the sub-normal conditions, this should not be allowed to stand in the way of a final settlement of two questions of long-standing dispute. The city needs title to the lands and the university needs a service. It would be a mistake for both parties to allow the deal to break down at this stage.

RUSSIAN COAL OR CANADIAN?

Moscow, it appears, has made a definite offer to Ottawa to trade coal for farm implements. The proposal is that the Soviets will ship $100,000 worth of farm implements in Canada, part of which will be made in the ratio of two dollars in gold to one dollar in coal. The transaction would involve the admission of about $350,000 worth of Russian coal into Canada; and Ottawa is said to be wondering what to do about it.

So far as the Canadian coal industry is concerned, imported coal means the same thing whether it comes from Russia or the United States. If the intention is to continue to allow imports of coal to come into the Dominion in quantities and on terms similar to those of the past, it would make no direct difference to us whether we buy coal from the Soviets or from the United States.

If the Bennett Government has any serious notion of extending to the Canadian coal producing industry a measure of protection, something is being done to give it to other branches of industry, an appropriate way to start applying that policy would be to tell the Soviet to go and get their coal elsewhere. And the appropriate next step in the program would be to increase the barrier against United States coal in keeping with the increased tariff on other commodities that country.

Trade with Canada is a good deal broader than the admissions on either side of $350,000 worth of Russian coal. The decision is as to whether or not Canadian coal mining is to be protected as other branches of industry have been protected; or whether it is to be limited to sacrifice for the supposed benefit of other industrial interests. Having been elected on a policy of all-round protection, that Ottawa is really deciding is whether it will live up to that policy in the matter of conserving the Canadian fuel market for Canadian fuel.

HAS THE LEGISLATURE THE COURAGE?

The Liberal house leader in the legislature on Monday stated the plain facts when he said the provincial debt of Alberta had been increasing too rapidly, and has now reached a figure which demands the serious attention of the legislature and the public. Recognizing to the full the splendid resources of the province and the vast potentialities of its future, without impairing their development, a debt of $114,000,000, requiring interest and sinking fund charges of $6,000,000 every year, is a heavy load for a population of about three-quarters of a million people to carry.

As to the difficulty of controlling the debt, Mr. Webster put the case in the proverbial "nut shell" when he said: "During prosperous times taxes come easy and in large amounts and during depression times they come slowly." Costs of government must be carried on commensurate with the peak of revenue. Now in time of stress and difficulty, when everyone finds it hard and in some cases impossible to pay taxes, we seem unable to make adjustments downward in cost of government. He might have stated that it is really impossible to make such adjustments in dull times without imposing additional hardship. In a period of depression, the legislature is not master of the situation given work. People for whom work can not be found must be given relief. To sharply redden on public expenditure would throw more people out of work and into the bread line or on the relief rolls. The best way to help the unemployed is to make the best of a bad job.

Obviously, if a legislature is to economize at all that must be done when times are good, when employment is plentiful, when trade is brisk. The investment is going to freeze when prosperity is general. When this depression begins to lift, money starts to circulate more freely, business quickens, and the unemployed ranks thin out, will the legislature of Alberta be able to restrain itself from expenditure and use the surplus revenue to pay off the deficits which are now being incurred and which cannot be avoided?

That is a resolution that ought to be taken shape just now in the minds of the Ministers and the members. And on the part of the public there should be a growing determination to see that common sense is applied to the spending of tax money. The time comes when spending will again be normally controllable. We cannot, as the residents of a province, any more than we can as individuals, run into debt when times are good and also when times are bad. Just as surely as the province reduces its debt load in seasons of prosperity it will be able to spend freely and safely in times of adversity.

It is said that measures are to be broken, and this is proposed to be participated in the case with election promises. Mr. Davis' platform of 1887 contained fourteen points, one of which was that he would not interfere with the election of others. It may be well to refresh the public mind on this point.

1. State government for the Territories.

2. State allowance for public works and school funds.

3. Funds to be raised to pay off school loans.

4. Local men for local offices.

5. Settlement of war claims and rebellion losses.

6. Settlement of odd-numbered sections for homesteads.

7. Creation of Indian reserves for settlement.

8. Lease question to be settled by a commission.

9. Increase in state tax on beer.

10. Decrease before survey to have homestead rights.

11. Increased representation for Alberta.

12. Protection of half-breed children born between 1870 and 1885.

13. Standard roads.

14. The Territories are less self-governing than they were in 1885.

15. Threats were made last spring and repeated last fall that the new grants would be cut down. Not hearing of them.

16. Eastern men appointed sheriffs of Alberta over whom they had no control.

17. The Red River claimants were settled.

18. The Indians were still as hermetically sealed from settlement as Mr. Davis' mouth from a closed jar.

19. The Indian reserve south of Edmonton has been abandoned by the Indians for years and it not possible to get them back.

20. The lease commission has never been heard of since Mr. Davis' election address disappeared from the newspapers.

21. British Columbia still has its own, and we have our own.

22. The principle of squatters' rights was acknowledged before Mr. Davis knew what squatters' rights meant.

23. The representation of Alberta as it was, and does not remain so, will be a great loss to the willful government.

24. In response to the recommendation of the Northwest Territories Commission, the government visited the Northwest to report on the script question, with the protest from Mr. Davis.

25. British Columbia still has its own, and we have our own.

33. CANADA'S BASE METAL INDUSTRY

From the files of The Edmonton Bulletin

Mr. Justice G. C. Ross, in his speech in the Senate, said:

"In my opinion, the base metal industry is in a maniacal number, containing a series of special articles illustrating and describing the great base metal industry of Canada."

The following important facts are brought out in the speech:

"The base metal industry has now reached a position of independence to the extent that it supplies its own market.

"The base metal industry is having a small enough capacity.

"If you do not have a cough and there are no other signs of tuberculosis, the doctor will tell you to take a deep breath and then a deep breathing exercise to keep your lungs young and elastic."

ALL GEMS TO BE SYNTHETIC SAYS SCIENCE

Imitations Will be More Beautiful Than Real Stones

Bulletin News Special

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 27.—Synthetic stones, being more beautiful than most precious stones of today will replace diamonds and emeralds in the future. Prof. John E. Doherty, of the Royal Canadian Institute of Science Research, predicts.

He says that science has succeeded in making synthetic stones "far more beautiful than anything anything natural can produce."

"By applying a pressure of at least 100,000 pounds per square inch, we produced a glass product of astounding hardness and texture. But, unfortunately, the process has not progressed in the making of such stones, we have little progress to date in the manufacture of diamonds."

"The ordinary window pane of today is made of glass which contains no ingredients used in the glass made by the Syrians, more than 3,000 years ago."

"When science excels in the making of highly specialized sorts of glass, it will be able to produce diamonds, impossible to make glass out of any product other than silicon. After many years of work, we are finding success in making glass, the ingredients of which are diamonds."

"This product is not only nearly unbreakable, but possesses an unusual transparency and beauty."

Referring to the giant refractor now under construction at Princeton, N.J., the professor said that as far as enlarging the dimensions of the lenses of optical instruments concerned, the maximum has been reached.

DOROTHY DIX

Two Young Men Without Serious Intentions—

What Can a Plain Woman of 30 Expect of Life?

DEAR MUSIE DIX—We are a number of good families and angels around us and we intend to enjoy ourselves, but never to settle down and marry. We want to have good times, run around with this girl and that, but we have no time to think toward any serious intentions. I am afraid that is the right principle to adopt and that it is giving our girl friends a square AND D. J.

Answer: Your suggestions are perfectly harmless, so long as you distribute them among a number of girls and do not play any favorites.

As for boys like yourselves who like all girls instead of being in love with one girl who is likely to play around with all the others, I would say, "Get out of the d—d prayer." A lot of them still do and then their mothers are shocked and they want to have some plain husbands and they want to have some plain husbands and homes and babies. They are present in your position and of your mind, so you can't expect much machination playmates at you.

But don't take too seriously your determination never to marry. Practically every young man has made the same determination never to give up his freedom and never to become tied up with a woman. He would likely work hard and live the common life of a maiden, but he would never get married if he knew that there was nothing on earth that he wanted to do so much as to marry a girl. And he would be a maiden and that the time he yearned for would be the time of the privilege of working and supporting her.

What's that will happen to you, and the queer thing is that when it does happen, you will not be able to live it over and think that marriage is the only life.

Contracting Note
Struck in Newest Decorative Plans

Varied Colors and Materials Give Varied Effect

BY JULIA BLAISDALL

NEW YORK (C.N.W.)—Interior

decorations are making a contract in materials, contracts in colors, to effect summing results.

If you have good taste, certainty of success is yours, for individuality can achieve room that is devastatingly lovely in their own right.

If you haven't good taste, know the art of getting away from the muddle, to capture the modern metropolis, to make your walls look like the walls of my mother's home.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Would

you have any advice of a woman of 20 with gold and good health but with a heart of gold and her job well done?

I can't seem to get along with being old-fashioned, neither am I modern, but I am not up to date in Becking, so where do I get off? It is necessary to broaden my mind to get across to the public. I am not good at anything but cooking, working, writing, and reading, trying to be a good housewife, but I am not good at anything else.

As to what men demand in wives,

that depends upon the individual man. There are men who like the old fashioned, thrifty and and thrifty good homemakers.

Others like the new, modern, water without accepting it and who consider a home only a place to go to, not a place to live in. Intelligent women and others who were prettier now.

But here goes this well in mind,

and that is how a woman can improve another woman's personality and if a man doesn't love her for what you are, you may be very sure that he is not interested in pretending to be what you are.

SUPERIORS DEFEAT CANADIANS 4 TO 1 IN CITY PLAY-OFF

Vermilion Juveniles Blanked in First Game; Pro Wrestling Show Pleases Fans

LOOKING AROUND by JOE DWYER

Dave Nempp, goal keeper for Blackfoot, who has been winning some hockey champs, has been dunting inspired net-minding toward the end of the season. He is now in the official Coast Pro League, but he certainly has a future in the game all right. The Blackfeet were submited beneath the 8-1 score by the home team. The Blackfeet should be the biggeman of the year, but I think that Frank Purvis will rise.

Canadians, winners of the Area Senior League, weren't expected to earn Series titles, but they did. From the looks of things when they met in their play-off game, but for quite some time, the Canadians had the best opposition for any series to beat. In fact, they had the best record in the league, but they were beaten at the last minute. They should have been good for, and they showed that much desired fighting spirit. Vermilion, however, defeated more

The series was originally listed as two games, goals to count, but it has now been changed to a second game will be played.

Mike Bilinsky and his troupe of wrestlers went over large with the people who went to the carnival for the first time. The grapevines provided action and Bilinsky was the star. His brother, who was a champion in the showmanship class, retained his gold-plated belt, but that was an afterthought. The Bilinsky troupe did a great job, and they showed that much desired fighting spirit. Vermilion, however, defeated more music hall, and Mike Clegg is the manager of the new music hall.

EDMONTON, Feb. 27.—The Edmontonians defeated the Indians from all points of view. The Indians, however, were not bad, but the Edmontonians were better. The Indians had a hard time, but the Edmontonians had a harder time, and the Indians won the day.

Huge Crowd Sees

Boston Club Tie

The newspaper reports that the largest crowd to witness a Canadian-American League hockey game in Boston, Massachusetts, was at the Boston Bruins' home game. The league-leading Springfield Indians, 3 to 3 in overtime, engaged in a fight in the overtime session which ended their game.

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—The James W. Bellows medical museum, formerly known as the Bellows Clinic, has been renamed the Bellows Clinic in a ceremony here yesterday.

OXFORD AND CAMBRIDGE

IN STAFF WORKS-OUT

Yesterday

London, Feb. 26.—University

staff, 1,200, after seven weeks of preliminary training, were well into the final stage of the course for the classic Oxford-Cambridge boat race.

Oxford had two trials yesterday.

With J. E. Plattemillie, a 20-year-old, authoring from England, in the lead, Trinity College, Cambridge, in a bow and D. E. Clegg, a 20-year-old, authoring from New Zealand, in a bow, the Cambridge team took the lead in the first half of the race, but Oxford, in a bow, took the lead in the second half of the race, and Oxford won the race.

In the race, Oxford's bow, Clegg, had a stroke, and Oxford lost in a good strength, so Oxford lost the race, but Oxford won the race with a borrowed 30-strokers on the bow.

Their bow, Clegg, had a stroke,

and Oxford lost the race.
